identifiers

All function names and variables are identifiers self documenting/meaningful identifiers are names given to variable or functions to reflect their purpose so programmers can easily identify their purposes.

constant/named constant: a never change value during the execution of the program where it is defined sequence

```
yourName = input("Please input your name") greeting = "Hello " + yourName

print(greeting)
```